

Television and Games Consoles Policy

Bumble & Bloom Childcare

This policy sits alongside our Screen Time Policy and sets out how televisions and games consoles are used at the setting.

Our approach

- Television and games consoles are not part of our usual daily activities.
- Any use is short, purposeful, age-appropriate and shared with an adult.
- Screens are never used to occupy children or as background noise.

When we might use TV

- Occasional use may include a short nature or story clip linked to a topic, a video call with a family member, or a special seasonal viewing.
- Content is chosen and previewed in advance, ad-free where possible and always PEGI/BBFC appropriate for the youngest child present.

Games consoles

- Games consoles are not used with the children in our care.

Environment

- Televisions are switched off unless in active, planned use.
- Screens are not on during meals, sleep or transitions.

Parents

- Parents may request that their child has no screen use at all; we will respect this fully.

Review

- This policy is reviewed at least annually.
